

Final Reflection

Personal reflection is an important part of the learning process. Now that you have completed this module about soils and soil sustainability, this is your chance to take a moment to reflect on your own learning. The content of your responses will not be graded, but you must address all of the following questions for full credit on this assignment. Your response to each question should be in paragraph form, using complete sentences free of spelling and grammar errors.

- What did I learn about the importance of soil sustainability through completing this activity?
- How did I use systems thinking to understand impacts on soil sustainability?
- How is soil sustainability significant to me as a citizen?
- What concepts were most challenging and which were most interesting?
- What questions do I still have?

Rubric

	Non-performance	Poor	Basic	Good	Exemplary	Score
Responses	No questions answered.	One question answered.	Two or three questions answered.	Four Questions answered.	All five questions answered.
Readability	Major grammatical and/or spelling errors.		Minor grammatical and/or spelling errors.		Document is free of grammar and spelling errors.
Length	No responses are complete paragraphs.	One response is a complete paragraph.	Two or three responses are complete paragraphs.	Four responses are complete paragraphs.	All five responses are complete paragraphs.	