

Yellowstone Fires Oral Presentation Scoring Rubric
Score	4	3	2	1
Organization	Introductory topic paragraph fully introduces the purpose of the report.	Introductory topic paragraph somewhat introduces the purpose of the report.	Introductory topic paragraph does little to introduce the purpose of the report.	Introductory topic paragraph unconnected with the purpose of the report.
	All event-sphere and sphere-sphere interactions are backed with strong supporting evidence.	Most event - sphere and sphere-sphere interactions are backed with strong supporting evidence.	Less than five event-sphere and sphere-sphere interactions are backed with strong supporting evidence.	Less than four event-sphere and sphere-sphere interactions are backed with strong supporting evidence.
	Concluding paragraph provides strong support for recommendations.	Concluding paragraph provides somewhat strong support for recommendations.	Concluding paragraph provides weak support for recommendations.	Concluding paragraph provides no support for recommendations.
Content	The report documents four event-sphere interactions, each from a different sphere.	The report documents three event-sphere interactions, each from a different sphere.	The report documents two event-sphere interactions, each from a different sphere.	The report documents one event-sphere interaction.
	The report documents six sphere-sphere interactions.	The report documents five sphere-sphere interactions.	The report documents four sphere-sphere interactions.	The report documents three sphere-sphere interactions.
Presentation	The presentation provides a fully internally consistent report of the problem and recommendations based on the data and research	The presentation provides a somewhat internally consistent report of the problem and recommendations based on the data and research	The presentation provides a somewhat internally consistent report of the problem and recommendations based on most of the data and research	The presentation neither provides an internally consistent report of the problem or recommendations based on the data and research