Dear Mr. Barlow:

The National Association of Geoscience Teachers Southeastern Section annually recognizes Outstanding Earth Science Teachers from among State award winners. You have been selected as The Outstanding Earth Science Teacher for the Southeastern States for 1989. CONGRATULATIONS!!

You can be proud of this recognition, for the competition is keen. It brings honor not only to you but also to your school and to North Carolina. I commend you for your accomplishments while realizing that your students are the real benefactors. You will receive a plaque from NAGT commemorating this accomplishment at the Fall Meeting of the North Carolina Science Teachers Association.

In addition to the top award, which you will receive, two finalists will be recognized: Nancy Hightower and Emmie Thirlwell, state winners of Georgia and South Carolina, respectively. I wish you continued future successes.

Sincerely,
