The Next Generation of MERLOT Learning Activities: Pedagogy in Action
Sean Fox, Carleton College, Scott Cooper, University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse, James Rutledge, St. Petersburg College

MERLOT has partnered with SERC’s Pedagogic Service to integrate information about effective teaching practice into MERLOT Community Sites.

Integrating within partner sites:

Information about effective teaching practices...

- Customization services allow partners to seamlessly integrate pedagogic content into their existing website.
- Partners can draw from, and contribute to, a growing library of pedagogical content: 17 modules, each describing the what, why, and how of a particular teaching method.

...intimately tied to a customized collection of activities...

- Each pedagogic module includes a collection of teaching activities that exemplify the pedagogy. Partners choose the set of activities most relevant to their audience.
- Pedagogic information, including tips for use and adaptation, intimately linked with each teaching activity, to guide faculty from what they seek to what they need to know.
- Activities draw from and build on existing resources in the partners’ collections and serve as a bridge between the partners’ collections and pedagogic guidance.

Based on a proven model: http://serc.carleton.edu/introgeo

The related activities are also integrated into the main MERLOT assignment collection.

This work is supported with NSDL funding (DUE-0226243 & DUE-0532768).

Contact serc@carleton.edu to request more information about this project.